Legislators From South of the State Say They Will Do
No Opposing.

(By Edward A. O'Brien.)

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 5.—There are about 25 members of the legislature at the hotels in this city in response to the call of Governor Gillett for the session which opens tomorrow, called to consider a $5,000,000 bond issue for the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Many of these have a dual attraction the State Fair, which is now in progress here and which is said to be the best entertainment of the kind which has ever been given in this country.

"The number of lawmakers on hand at this time, is in excess of what was expected.

Many informal caucuses have been held and the cap by the governor has been discussed with considerable animation, the majority of those on hand undoubtedly favoring the bonding of the state in the interests of the Panama-Pacific Exposition. See "Panama."

Governor Gillett admitted today that he would send to the senate for confirmation the names of the seven he had appointed to office since the last legislative declination, at the same time, that it was his duty to do so. He also stated that he would ask the confirmation of the appointees regardless of what might be the views on the subject of the members of the upper house.

LITTLE DOUBT EXISTS.

Little doubt is entertained that most, if not all, of the appointed will be confirmed. There has been no change in the sentiment of the upper house against the governor since the last session and, as a consequence, little, if any, opposition is anticipated to any of the appointees, but, in the event of the election of Johnson, there is no doubt that some of them will be retired in favor of persons who will be more in harmony with the new administration.

In the present session there has been no suggestion of change in any of the offices of either house, and no change has taken place in the membership Lou Martin, who for many years has been sergeant-at-arms of the senate, and Jack Stafford, who for an almost equally lengthy period, has officiated in the same capacity in the assembly, will be in their accustomed places, but will have only two deputies instead of a small corps of assistants who have, at times, aided their respective chiefs.

This is because it is the desire of both officers to minimize the expense of the session, as also because of the small amount of work which will have to be done in each house.

Besides a fair deal of the work that has heretofore devolved upon the assistants to the controllers of the assembly, will be divided among the several state offices. The latter work will be attended to by the office of secretary of state. The controller's office will make out the warrants and do other related clerical work. The force of pages will be reduced to five.

FIRST APPOINTEE.

The first appointee of the present session in the assembly is John Kolo of San Lorenzo, a deputy sergeant-at-arms. This appointment was made to do Kolo is one of the most prominent legislative attaches for the session. It is the first in 20 years, he has not missed a session, the faithful performance of his duty at one session insuring his appointment at the succeeding one.

Speaker Stanton of the assembly and J. P. Tracy of the old assembly district, both from Los Angeles, were the first of the contingent from the south to put in an appearance. The speaker of the old assembly took a break during the conduct of the business of the house. He will not much matters unnecessarily but there must be no time lost. There will be sufficient time allowed for discussion pro and con and pains will be taken to show that whatever action shall be taken will be the result of consultation and proportion, which are to be acted upon without regard to the Panama-Pacific Commission, the executive committee of which is now in this city, and be presented in both houses simultaneously. In the senate this will be referred to the judiciary and finance committees, of which Senators Willis of San Bernardino and Leavitt of Oakland are chairmen, respectively.

GO TO COMMITTEE.

In the house they will go before the committee on constitutional amendments, which Mr. Coghlan of the forty-first district of San Francisco is chairman. All these committees will have the same membership they had at the last session and open meetings will be held by them to enable all members to hear the propositions thoroughly discussed.

Speaker Stanton is of the opinion that the session should not last more than

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—With more than 300 passengers, including many women and children on board, the excursion steamer Sea Gull, which left Glen Island, on Long Island Sound, late last night for New York, broke her anchor cable while at anchor outside Hell Gate waiting for the fog to lift and drifted on the rocks off Cat Briar Island.

SAN FRANCISCO. Sept. 5.—The celebration of Labor day in San Francisco today took the form of a monster parade of the various unions and fully 40,000 men passed in procession along the principal streets of the downtown section. The various labor organizations turned out in full force, having adopted distinctive uniforms and being accompanied by bands, which played martial strains over the entire line of march.

A number of surprises were forthcoming in the floats, which were many, and original design, and the appearance of each was the signal for loud cheering among the dense throng of spectators who lined every foot of the way from Southend to Valencia street, and where a novel feature of the parade were the divisions composed of women.

Under the command of Grand Marshal John A. Kelly, a member of the board of supervisors and a prominent labor leader, this parade left the assembling point at Fourteenth and Valencia streets a little after the scheduled time and passed over a line of marchers originally mapped off from Market to Van Ness, via Turk, counter-clockwise to Market, and thence to the ferry. There were 107 unions in line with twenty bands and as many drum corps.

MAYOR REVIEWS PARADE.

At Drumm and Market streets Mayor P. H. McCarthy and Grand Marshal Kelly, together with some invited guests and other city officials, reviewed the marching hosts and bowed their acknowledgment to the salutes of the eight divisions as they filed in orderly manner through the streets.

Today's procession was acclaimed by all as one of the most successful that has ever been held here and great credit is given to the organizers of the parade as well as the individual unions and others who contributed to the designing of the floats and the making of especially spectacular features.

For Francisco turned out in mass to watch the flavor of the city's working men on their one great show day of the year, and those who bore with the long march felt amply rewarded for their trouble, and did their best to show their appreciation of the cheers and greetings of good will that were bestowed upon them from every side.

At the former a large number of the unions took boats for Shellmound park, where they joined in celebrating the day with their brethren of Alameda county.

Gompers Speaks to 15,000 Persons
in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY. Mo., Sept. 5.—President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor addressed an audience of 15,000 persons here today. The speaker was followed by Mayor Brown and Representative J. C. McMillan, who followed a labor day parade through the business section of the city. Ten thousand men, representing scores of labor unions, were in line.

Gompers will speak tonight at Kansas City, Kansas. He will be escorted across the state and city line by representatives of the local labor council.

MAKE MERRY AT ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS. Mo., Sept. 5.—Clarence Darrow of Chicago addressed 60,000 Labor Day merrymakers at Forest Park today. There was no official parade, but the streets were thronged early with thousands of workers and their families moving toward Forest Park, where a monster picnic was held. Following Darrow's speech local labor leaders addressed the crowd.

MEET DAY AT DES MOINES.

DES MOINES, Iowa. Sept. 5.—Thousands of working men marched today in an industrial parade, the feature of Des Moines' Labor Day celebration. The city entertained thousands of visitors.

LAW DAY was observed also in Burlington, Kokomo, Oskaloosa, Davenport and other Iowa cities.

DEDICATE LABOR TEMPLE.

PITTSBURG. Sept. 5.—Following a parade of 20,000 union members, Pittsburg's first annual Labor Day celebration today, the chief speaker at the dedicatory exercises was Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor. About 10,000 miners and strikers, coal miners participated in a demonstration against the mine operators. The miners were orderly, however. They paraded after a parade of the street for more than an hour.

PARADE AT PORTLAND.

PORTLAND. Ore., Sept. 5.—Labor Day was observed by a parade of 10,000 men through the principal streets of the city. Over 7000 men participated in the march, and the others were divided into six grand parades.

For the first time in Portland the participants did not wear special uniforms. Instead, they wore with distinction the only marks that distinguished the various trades were banners carried at the head of the various columns.

10,000 WORKERS MARCH.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. Sept. 5.—Organized labor celebrated the day by its usual methods in which about 10,000 men participated. After marching through the streets for more than an hour the parades disbanded.

More Than 1000

Fresno's Parade

FRESNO. Sept. 5.—Fresno's Labor Day parade was one of the largest of its kind ever held in this city, more than 10,000 men participating. The procession was led by Chief of Police Shaw and Mayor Cluster Rowell was among those in line.

This afternoon sports and other events are being held at Zapp's Park and a dance will conclude the festivities this evening. The business houses were all closed in observance of the day.

HOME RUN BY WOLVERTON WINS ANOTHER FOR OAKLAND

Nelson Pitches Swell Ball and Team
Mates Give Him Grand Support in Game at Freeman's Park

Here's how they stand after this morning's game:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Portland	79	61	.564
Oakland	87	69	.557

Three cheers and a tiger for the big chief of the Fighting Oaks, also a big cheer and a tiger for Clyde Warner, Karl Maggar, Willie Hogan, Frankie Carroll, "Cutty" Cutshaw, Eddie Swander, Carlo Mitze and our old "college chum," Harry Nelson.

The two warriors bled that added fame and glory to the fair name of Oakland this morning out at Freeman's Park, in the eighth game of the series between the Wolverines and the Senators. "College Chum" Nelson did the slab duty for the locals and won after the record made by Moser and Christian yesterday.

He had one more hit than Christian allowed and two more than Moser allowed, but that "aint nothing" when you figure out that many a Senator dented the plate or came anywhere near it.

Barring those four hits, the elongated chief had a game of baseball, though he makes one wonder why the big league stars didn't get "Shun's" name in the category of talent when they were looking for pitchers, still we are tickled to death that they overlooked him, for we need him badly ourselves.

And now about the big chief, Harry Wolverton. Both sides were going through their little stunts on the diamond like a couple of well regulated clockwork. Then comes the seventh inning.

Carroll, first up for the Oaks, flew out to Burns. Wolverton didn't fly out to anybody. After he had taken a swing at that perfect couple of small boys outside the rightfield fence had a scratch to see who would own the ball. It was all, but that out run, a home run was plenty to win another for the Oaks.

Following the big chief, Harry Wolverton. Both sides were going through their little stunts on the diamond like a couple of well regulated clockwork. Then comes the seventh inning.

Carroll, first up for the Oaks, flew out to Burns. Wolverton didn't fly out to anybody. After he had taken a swing at that perfect couple of small boys outside the rightfield fence had a scratch to see who would own the ball. It was all, but that out run, a home run was plenty to win another for the Oaks.

415,000 POPULATION IN SAN FRANCISCO MAY BE FIGURE

City's Percentage of Growth Is Larger in Last Decade Than Previously.

OFFICIAL RETURNS ARE WITHHELD FOR A TIME

Chicago and Boston to Know Result of Census This Week.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—San Francisco census returns will be among the last in the class of big cities to be announced by the census bureau. Director Durand said yesterday that the main force of the census bureau had been engaged for two months on the returns from New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston. The San Francisco figures were put aside until other heavy work could be dispatched.

Census figures are very closely guarded until officially published, and it is impossible to get advance information regarding San Francisco. The statement made by Director Durand, however, gives an inkling of the city's standing.

PERCENTAGE LARGER.

Durand said that the city's percentage growth was substantially larger during the decade from 1900 to 1910 than the percentage during the previous decade. The city in 1900 had a population of 427,782, an increase of 46,750 or 11 per cent, or 14.6 per cent. An increase of only 12 per cent would give San Francisco a population of nearly 400,000, but as the increased percentage was described as "substantial," it is presumed that it is more than 13 per cent. A 20 per cent increase would give San Francisco 415,000 population.

CHICAGO NEXT.

Both New York and Philadelphia returns have been issued. They are out of the way for at least ten years. Chicago and Boston, however, are next, and both will be given out during the week, according to the present schedule.

Chicago probably will come first. The director stated that he expected to have the population figures of the Illinois metropolis ready either on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Boston's figures are being worked out now and they probably will be out a day or two after those of Chicago.

Most of the larger cities now know their population. In addition to San Francisco, St. Louis and Cleveland are yet to come.

Steals Fortune From Big Colorado Mine

TELLOURIDE, Colo., Sept. 5.—William Irwin, amalgamator at the Liberty Bell mine, was arrested yesterday on the charge of stealing refined gold, the property of the mine. He subsequently confessed to the police admitting that he had stolen $10,820 worth of gold in the last year.

As a result of his story, officers went to the home of a young lady with whom Irwin has been keeping company. They found $2921 worth of gold that he had given her. He represented to her that the precious metal belonged to him and that he wanted her to keep it safely for him.

GREAT MULTITUDES GATHER TO SEE THE MONSTER HIPPODROME CIRCUS

Feeding the Barnum & Bailey elephants—a national privilege that has become a habit scene at yesterday's circus.

Barnum & Bailey Aggregation Puts on Countless New Thrills to Delight of Young America and the Older Folk; Show Grounds Is Scene of Animation

Bringing with its glittering array of rumbling wagons, its host of clowns and merrymakers, hawkers, vendors, side-show display and last, not least, the wonderful spread of canvas about whose sheltering canopy mysterious tents centers the heroic ideals of youth and the fascinations of elders, the circus is here arousing the animated spirits of the youngsters for miles around, while in the hearts of the grown-ups swell fond recollections of the advent of their first circus, when peanuts, popcorn and red lemonade had as much to do with the pleasures of the day as the morning parade, the "grand free exhibition" at the showgrounds, or the spectacle itself.

The tents at yesterday's performances in the afternoon and evening were crowded. The feature today was the big parade this morning which followed the labor parade and was a whole circus in itself. The other performances in Oakland will be this afternoon and evening.

HAIR-RAISING STUNTS.

From the opening grand tournament to the "culminating and amazing drama of transcendental and terrific thrilldom," which was at once the climax and termination of the performance, Barnum & Bailey's circus opened a two days' stand in this city yesterday. It was all that could be asked for in the way of entertainment. Embodying dozens of distinctive features the enactment of the show itself was a continuation of surprises for the audience, with its host of clowns and aerobic performers, hair-raising stunts and hazardous ventures.

MULE MAKES HIT.

Numerous clowns, fat and funny, slim and ludicrous, kept the vast audience in constant roar, while the display of trained animals compared to anything that ever happened like attempt. The three lions and two stages were continuous action, while in the intricate heights of the aerodrome on a seeming angle of trapezes swung groups of gallantly acrobats who thrilled those beneath them with suspense and admiration.

A social whirl, in which animals participated as well as men, resulted in the latter proving the most dexterous in remaining upon the rapidly revolving disk. Ponies in miniature startled their viewers with the agility by which they outclassed their human contestants. Laughable to the extreme was the bucking mule riding contest, in which half a dozen would-be riders were hurled in every direction, while the "Mauds" seemed to smile at their discomfiture.

HO FOR THE ELEPHANT BAND.

The plunge of Dardouf from the top of the tent upon a slanting slide was made with the entire abandon of an ordinary diver, but instead of water a bareback receiving him. It is the most daring of the events shown in a circus.

The bareback riders are the feature of the Barnum & Bailey show this year. They are the leaders in their profession.

PORTO RICO ONE BEST CUSTOMER

Island Exports to United States Has Increased 500 Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Porto Rico is Uncle Sam's best customer according to government statistical experts. Last year goods shipped to the island from 11 countries aggregated $1,240,000,000. Porto Rico purchased as much from United States as Bolivia, Colombia, Costa Rica and the Dominican Republic combined, and eclipses Brazil as a buyer of American goods.

Porto Rico's trade has gone forward with leaps and bounds in recent years, and within the past nine years has increased 445 per cent. The island's trade in 1910 was $65,495,074, as compared with $17,502,003 in 1901. The present year is declared to be the most prosperous the island has ever known. The indications are that the total trade next year will reach $65,000,000 because of the increased acreage of tobacco, sugar cane and

AUTOS IN STATE NUMBER 35,000

New York First With 60,000
Machines, California a Close Second.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—According to a table compiled by the automobile directories company of this city, there are $600,000,000 worth of automobiles in this country. New York state leads with 60,000 machines, but California is second with 37,000.

In Minneapolis, it is said, one auto firm holds mortgages on 1,00 homes in Wisconsin; the mortgages on automobiles and other property for the purchase price are estimated at $4,000,000. Nebraska has $9,000,000 in mortgages based on automobile purchases; in Kansas the estimate is $4,000,000 in the last three years. The money tightness in Iowa is charged to the same condition.

In Indianapolis over 2000 persons are reported to have given mortgages recently to buy autos. In Wyoming only five percent of the auto purchases are represented by mortgages, but it is reported that 15 per cent of the purchasers are persons who cannot afford the luxury.

Makes Murder Threat;
Italian Is Arrested

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—"What's the matter, countryman?" asked Detective Guarineri last night of a fellow passenger on an elevated train who seemed worried.

"I'm going to kill a man in Brooklyn I'm going there now," answered the Italian.

The detective lurched forward as if by accident and felt a revolver.

"You're under arrest," he said. "Come with me."

Army Engineers
Off for Projects

SEATTLE, Sept. 5.—The Board of Army Engineers appointed by President Taft to examine irrigation projects divided by year yesterday. Colonel John Biddle, chairman, and Major G. W. Kutz left today for the Columbia River Valley to look into the great reclamation scheme there. The other members, Colonel W. C. Langford, Major W. W. Hart and Major Harry Burgess, departed for Portland today on the way to investigate the Umatilla project in Eastern Oregon.

AID FOR CITY PARKS SLOGAN OF BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN

Indorses Plan for Appropriation Sufficient to Carry on Work of Beautifying the City

Business men of the city are unanimous in the assertion that a sufficient appropriation to carry on the work of improving and acquiring parks for Oakland should be made at once.

Following are the views of a number of city officials and business men regarding Oakland's park system:

Auditor Favors It

BY GEORGE E. GROSS, CITY AUDITOR.

"I am heartily in favor of parks and playgrounds. I believe that they are great assets to the city, and that the movement should be fostered. I made an liberal allowance as the budget would permit, when taking into consideration the income of the city."

"The increase of 4 cents in the tax rate does not represent an actual increase in the cost of maintenance in Oakland. There has been an actual decrease in this, which would amount to about 12 cents under ordinary conditions."

"But we are paying on a bond issue of $3,733,000, for harbor improvements and for a city hall. These improvements have been voted, and they have long been needed, but they cost money. Although only $1,760,000 of the bonds have been sold, we will have to redeem a portion of the entire amount January 1, 1911, and provision must be made for that in our bond fund, as well as for the interest. If we had the same bonds as last year a reduction in the tax rate would have been made possible. But our bond and redemption fund is eating up a huge piece of our income, and necessitates a consequent paring in other directions."

"The tax rate in this city is not high, compared to that of other cities in which civic improvements are in progress on any comprehensive scale."

Public Need

BY GEORGE W. FRICK, COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

"In these days of civic progress and municipal beautification the most essential and praiseworthy innovation is public parks. The people of Oakland as a community seem to favor the extension of our system of parks, and this being a fact, I cannot see how the municipal corporation can ignore the popular demand. We should have more and finer parks right now, so that the people of the present may enjoy them and bring their children into maturity amid natural environs of this kind. It will make better men and women of them and their offspring."

Children's Delight

BY COUNTY CLERK JOHN P. COOK.

"Throughout the East the 'city beautiful' is the people's watchword and their pride. Why not the same spirit in Oakland? The park commissioners should have the backing of the administration in the immediate consummation of their proposed park system. Oakland's going ahead by leaps and bounds in commerce and industry; the 'city beautiful' should march hand in hand with this development. Of course we want our children to have beautiful parks after we are gone, but as a rule most of us are just selfish enough to think that we, too, are entitled to a little of the same pleasure."

Boosts Oakland

BY JUDGE EVERETT J. BROWN.

"I have always been a strong advocate of the 'city beautiful.' Oakland is famous far and wide as a lovely residential city, to be sure, but what she needs most right now is to enable her to sustain that reputation as she grows in influence to more and better parks. The time to establish them is while we are growing."

Business Proposition

BY COUNTY RECORDER JOHN W. MOTT.

"Real estate in Oakland is as cheap now as it ever will be—cheaper, as a matter of fact. As a purely business proposition, therefore, now is the time for the city to extend its park system. Property that can be acquired today at a reasonable figure cannot be touched a few years later at anywhere near the same price. Aside from the other arguments in favor of fine parks and many of them, as a financial proposition right now is the time for the people to buy."

Should Have Hearing

PRESIDENT CITY COUNCIL.

"I think all the departments should have a hearing before we give any appropriation toward this project and that we should carefully see how the money is to be expended. We have no right to pledge ourselves to anything until the needs and necessities of all the departments have been heard from. However, the appropriation asked for by the park commission should be granted if it is possible to raise the money for it."

Develop Park System

BY PROF. C. J. HEESMAN.

"It is my opinion that we cannot do a better thing right now when the city is young than to develop a pretentious system of parks. The appropriations should certainly be increased and the money spent in getting our projected park system into being. The work, I think, should be done as soon as possible. I would like to see Oakland with parks scattered throughout the city, with no section of the city that would not have its garden spot and I would like to see every one of these parks connected by a series of wide boulevards. There are beautiful places inside of the city limits that could easily be acquired by the city and made into pleasure grounds for our citizens. There are no prettier spots anywhere than Dimond Canyon and Indian Gulch. If we get them into our park system and we get right in and finish the work laid out for us, the benefit arising from the possession of a sys-

Dressed Like Woman, but Feminine Gait Was Too Much for Him; Captured

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Inability to assume a feminine gait at the same time that he donned woman's clothing proved the undoing of a wayfarer from Chicago to Brooklyn today. Something heavy-footed about the walk of an unfamiliar figure in feminine garb soon coming out of a house on Buffalo avenue, the occupants of which are out of town, excited the suspicions of neighbors and one of them started in pursuit. The supposed woman broke into a run and when caught showed a surprisingly masculine ability to fight.

The man, subdued and taken to a police station, was prisoner when sent to be held in a picture hat. In a bundle which the prisoner carried the police say they found quantity of women's clothing and a $100 diamond ring.

The prisoner gave his name as Gus Edwards and said he came from Chicago.

Iceman Found Wandering Naked in Mesquite Brush

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 5.—Suffering from apparent temporary mental derangement, Charles Anderson, a San Diego ice man, was found near the Juana, Mexico, yesterday, after he had roamed naked for two days through the adjacent country.

It is believed he did not have a drink of water from the time he disappeared Friday morning until he was found by a searching party. He resisted capture desperately and it was necessary to dislodge and bind him before he could be brought to this city and be given medical treatment.

During the time he was in the brush he is said to have lived on insects.

Today he is in the county hospital and according to attendants will be completely recovered within a few days.

Would Beautify City

ROBERT S. PHELPS,

OF TAFT & PENNOYER.

"The beautifying of a city is a very important feature of its life and no city can be made beautiful unless the natural attractions of the place are developed along the proper lines. I think that a good park system is one of the best attractions that can be offered by any city. While I have made no study of the park situation in Oakland and am therefore not prepared to say anything about the increase of the appropriations, I think we have a location that is unsurpassed for the purpose if the city wants to make parks and playgrounds along the projected lines."

Believes in Parks

A. JONAS, OF THE HUB.

"I believe in parks for the city. I see as well as the next man the benefit derived from them. The pleasure and the attractiveness that a beautiful park system gives to a city is, of course, apparent to all of us. But if the tendency is to saddle the taxpayers with a heavier burden and to make a higher rate of taxation by the expenditure of vast sums in incompetent schemes, then I have no hesitancy in saying that we should take no steps without full investigation."

Young Girls Adrift In Straits for Hours

Revenue Cutter Officers See Them and Sends Launch to the Rescue.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Miss Phoebe Knowles, daughter of Dr. W. A. Knowles of 1867 Pine street, and her friend, Miss Dorothy Bridge of Mill Valley, were rescued from the waters of the Golden Gate by a revenue cutter officer after they had been adrift and helpless for several hours in a small skiff in the dangerous whirlpools and eddies.

The girls, both of whom have recently been graduated from the Girls' High School, were spending the afternoon at Sausalito one day last week. Intent upon meeting Miss Bridge's father upon his return from work in this city, they became separated from him, clung tightly to his hands, and they started to row to Belvedere. Near mid-channel a squall struck the little boat, and in the excitement that ensued all went overboard.

The swiftly moving current swept the craft into the turbulent waters of the straits, where it remained helpless for several hours. The situation was one of extreme peril, as the boat began to fill with the water thrown in by the wind.

The signals given by the two girls were not seen by the people on shore or by the passing boats, and it was only after the lapse of several hours that the officers of the revenue cutter discovered their plight through their glasses and sent a launch to the rescue.

The dinner engagement was missed.

Hamilton Flies Two Miles in New Airship

Stays In Air More Than Minute and Declares He will Shatter Records.

SACRAMENTO, September 5.—Charles K. Hamilton, the aviator, in the first trial in his new flying machine "Hamiltonite" remained in the air at Agricultural Park for one minute and four seconds this morning, covering a distance of possibly a trifle over two miles, alighting with such speed as to slightly damage the machine. The first official flight was made promptly at noon, proving eminently successful.

Hamilton is most enthusiastic over the possibilities of shattering world's records during his stay here.

Watchman in Duel With Miner; Both Die

GILA BEND, Ariz., Sept. 5.—In a gun fight last night with J. R. Williams, Southern Pacific watchman, Tom McRae, a miner, was killed, and Dubois so badly wounded by a bullet in the abdomen that he died in a hospital at Tucson.

The trouble was started by the watchman trying to prevent some men boarding a train.

A MAN OF IRON NERVE.

There are no prettier spots anywhere than Dimond Canyon and Indian Gulch. tem of parks and connecting boulevards will be incalculable."

BY FRANK H. GROTE.

OF BRALEY-GROTE FURNITURE CO.

"I believe firmly in great liberality as far as a park system is concerned. I do not know what the appropriation is this year, but it ought to be sufficient to do all the work that can reasonably be done. I think a liberal appropriation should be made and the work, if possible, finished without delay. It is of vital importance to Oakland that we have breathing places for the children and the plans that I have seen of the contemplated system struck me as just the thing. It seems to me that the city is rather lacking in parks. I think we should get in and spend some money and remedy the defect. I do not think a bond issue will be necessary. What money we need could be raised by straight taxation."

Roosevelt on the Tariff.

Colonel Roosevelt has at last aligned himself with the President on the tariff. It is significant that he took occasion to do this in Iowa, the original home of insurgency. He made his declaration in the presence of Senator Dolliver, who has been one of the most vigorous critics of the new tariff law. The ex-President's remarks thoroughly indicated that while he was in sympathy with the demand for lower duties and a more equitable schedule of charges, he was not in sympathy with the methods adopted by Messrs. Dolliver, Cummins, La Follette and Bristow.

Colonel Roosevelt recognizes that the Aldrich-Payne law has defects which should be remedied, but they are defects, as he points out, incident to any tariff law framed under the conditions which have obtained in the past. He favors a correction by detail and according to the recommendation of an expert commission. That is precisely President Taft's position. A commission has already been appointed to go over the entire range of tariff schedules and formulate from time to time changes which Congress will be asked to make. That insures correction of inequalities and abuses in the schedules.

President Taft has not denied that the present law is defective in spots, but he has stated what is true, that the law is an improvement on all of its predecessors and was perhaps the best that could have been expected under the circumstances. It was a case of give and take in making up the schedules. If the representatives from California wanted their home industries protected, they had to give way to the demands of Pennsylvania and New England. Hence the law was framed by a combination of local interests, and these local interests were sometimes served at the expense of the general public. Incidentally, certain large private interests were enabled to secure a larger share of protection than either justice or public policy demanded. Nevertheless, the law as a whole, is a good one, and with a few corrections, will give us an ideal revenue-producing tariff that will afford abundant protection to American labor and industry. That is precisely what the Republican party wants and what President Taft stands for.

We cannot get such a tariff by a general revision. It will either be framed by a combination of interests, as all tariffs since the Civil War have been framed, or it will be framed from a desire to eliminate and destroy the principle of protection. President Taft desires to preserve the principle of protection and at the same time to make the tariff as equitable and as moderate as possible. Colonel Roosevelt is in entire sympathy with President Taft in this particular. He is in favor of the method which the President recommended and Congress adopted. His view, if followed, would negative political agitation in regard to the tariff.

Past experience has demonstrated that political agitation does not bring about good tariff laws. Passion and prejudice are provoked and in the struggle special interests seek and obtain their advantage. The war is not waged for the purpose of getting an equitable arrangement, but to carry out extreme views. Instead of concrete reforms, the battle is waged between the policy of protection and the policy of free trade. In the effort to destroy protection, the free trade doctrinaires would sacrifice vast interests employing an immense number of laborers and an enormous amount of invested capital. To preserve protection the advocates of that system allow their judgment to be overcome; they give way to special interests and to the selfish demands of certain localities. Hence we have over protection in some parts of the country and under protection in other parts.

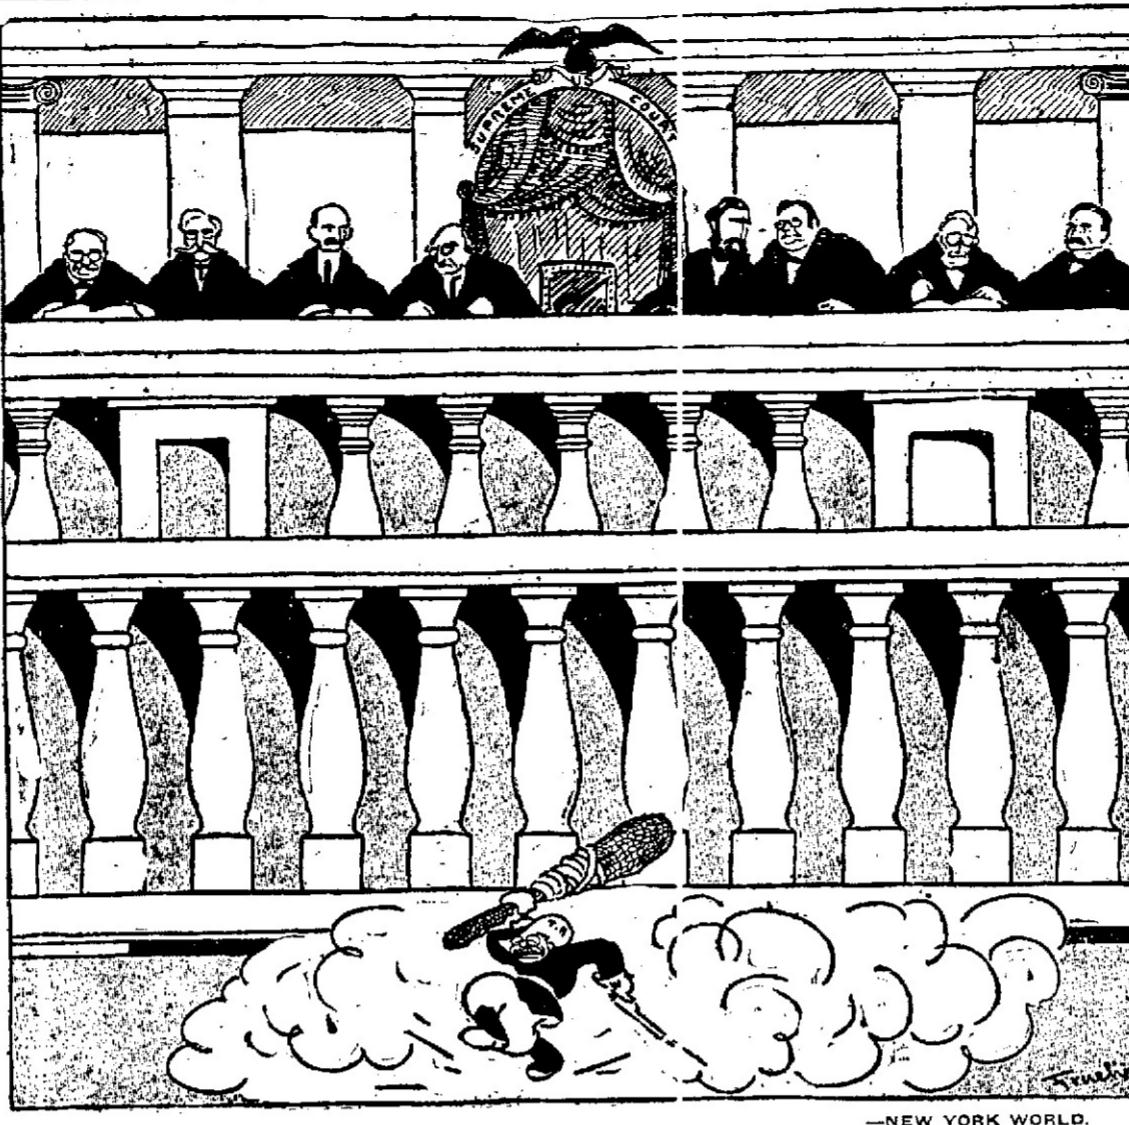

A specific instance is furnished by the shoe and leather industry. That industry not only benefits from high protective duty, but was permitted to place hides on the free list, thus sacrificing the cattle raiser on both ends. Such injustices will be corrected by the commission system, which will point them out from time to time and have them acted on as occasion arises without tearing all the schedules to pieces and throwing all the industries and the finances of the country into confusion.

The Democrats who are gathering at Stockton say that harmony will prevail in their convention. Perhaps, but let them not be too sure that it is not the harmony of death. Their gathering lacks the presence of the long array of strong and able men who formerly attended Democratic conventions. By comparison, a California Democratic convention today is a pitiful shadow of the conventions which assembled fifteen or twenty years ago. The Stockton convention of 1884 was not harmonious. Quite the contrary, but it was memorable and it was notable for the great number of distinguished men in attendance. It is impossible for the Democracy of today to call together such an array of men of distinction.

Some of the auto drivers from San Francisco appear to think the people of Oakland and vicinity should be treated as dogs or cattle. They manifest a brutal disregard of everybody's rights and a reckless indifference to the safety of other people. They rush through the streets at a tremendous rate of speed, defying the municipal ordinances and showing an utter contempt for the people of this city. Their notion appears to be that Oakland is a jay town and that its inhabitants regard people in an automobile from across the bay as superior beings. A few stiff jail sentences would cure these fashionable hoodlums of a bad form of swell head. When they get arrested, they commit perjury and denounce the officials for doing their duty. Letting them off with light fines simply encourages their brutality and their indifference to the safety of the public. Put a few of them in jail and this class of motorists will be more endurable in future.

There is no likelihood that President Taft will appoint Judge Harlan Chief Justice. Judge Harlan's great age—he is 71 years old now—negatives the idea of his promotion to the Chief Justiceship. Moreover, he has certain temperamental defects which would be rather too manifest as presiding judge of the Federal Supreme Court. He is an able and honest man, but he is somewhat emotional and not always logical in his interpretation of the law. His sincerity and his ardent sympathy with the masses cause him to seek remedies for what he deems to be popular wrong, by judicial rather than legislative action. He is a reformer who would reform by judicial decision instead of by the constitutional method, which is by legislation. However, he is a good man on the bench, or off of it for that matter, and although inclined to be an extremist, helps to leaven the conservatism of the court of last resort. But in any event, he is too old to take upon himself the duties of Chief Justice. President Taft will undoubtedly seek some younger man of sounder mental poise.

MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT

SENATORIAL ENDORSEMENT.

There is bound to be a squabble over the endorsement for United States Senator. Of the three candidates, the highest received only about one-third of the Republican votes cast in the primary election. John D. Works received a total of 64,911 votes. A. G. Spalding received 63,461 votes, and Edwin A. Meserve received 52,553 votes and did not carry a county.

The man who received the lowest vote is undoubtedly the best qualified to fill the position as United States Senator. Works will claim the endorsement because he received 1500 more votes than his next highest competitor, but he only carried twenty-two counties and has a plurality in thirty-nine Assembly and Senatorial districts, while A. G. Spalding carried thirty counties and received a plurality in seventy-five Senatorial and Assembly districts. Therefore Spalding, with a trifle fewer votes than Works, has a better claim to the endorsement, and in all probability will be elected United States Senator.

But it is a commentary on the direct primary that the man, who in all respects was better qualified than either of his competitors, received the lowest vote. This is said in no disparagement to Mr. Spalding, but is a statement of a fact which every well informed person in the State knows to be true. Mr. Meserve was located geographically in the right place, Los Angeles county. He is a native of California, a man of high character, marked ability and sterling integrity. He has had experience in public life, is a man of dignity, presence and forensic ability. But for some peculiar reason he fell some thousands of votes behind his two competitors. Works, the man above all others—a state divisionist, a hypocrite and a political humbug—who should not be elected United States Senator, received the highest vote. It is fortunate, however, that he will not get the honor he covets.

William R. Davis was not jobbed by machine politics. Oh, no, he was dropped down Dr. Pardee's coal chute by mere accident. He was not lost in the shuffle because of a desire to sidetrack him politically, but because of a mere oversight. Mr. Davis is a person of so little note in Alameda county that when Dr. Pardee's friends came to make up a slate for delegates to the State Convention, they forgot all about him. But they didn't forget to select another candidate for chairman of the State Convention. Mr. Davis had better go out and get a reputation.

A STRENUOUS WRITER

W. Holt-White, the English author, calls himself an "appallingly strenuous" writer. Perhaps not because of this quality did he write the book, "Roosevelt the Man," which was published recently, but undoubtedly because of it did he publish this book and two others within the period of six months, and none of them was light in character—the first manifestly not, the second being a biography of Edward VII, entitled "The People's King," and the third a novel, "Helen of All Time," figuring a reincarnation of the Trojan beauty in a modern Corsican-Scotch Helen.

He admits that he is already at work on three fresh books, all of which are being written in what he terms his space time, for he is also the news editor of a London daily paper. He writes of his methods of thought and work and the secret of his industry:

"I do not count myself a literary man, and am not sure that I want to be reckoned as such, though some distinguished critics have assured me that I could really do very well if I took more time over my work. That, however, is just the trouble. I hate taking time over anything, and experience of newspapers has taught me that a thing may be done as well quickly as slowly.

"Such a journalist as G. W. Stevens had a brilliant literary style of his own, yet his best work was written at top speed while the paper was waiting to go to press, and I see no reason why literature should not be produced in the same way if the subject an author handles is in tune with his own times. I am not saying there are no books that require peaceful and studious thought to the writing of them, but they are not for me."

"I like to deal with things that happen hurriedly. I love the 60-mile-an-hour motor car, the express elevator, swift passions and sudden endings. I like to see my books reeling out at the pace of a pilot engine running free and pounding home their point with the force of a steam sledgemill. I love work so long as it is strenuous. I have no play—which statement has provoked the comment that if all a man wrote at the same rate readers would not have any either."—New York Sun

**BOYHOOD MEMORIES**

Officials of the fisheries bureau at Washington may talk at length in their government pamphlets about the commercial value of the Amur's nebulosity as food and never rouse a remembrance of his boyhood days in the average country-bred American, but when they descend to plain terms like bullheads, hornpout and catfish he can tell them all about their merits without bothering about tedious scientific data. Something was wrong with him when he was young if he never caught hornpout with a handline or pole and line or with set lines or nets. An old millpond or muddy creek was the best place, and they bit best toward evening or after dark. There was not any better pan-fish to be had.

"Catfish and waffles" for which Philadelphia is famous, is a refined product he only learned to eat later since he bought his fish instead of catching them. Last year the government from its fish stations distributed 62,588 young fish and next year complete is to be asked to do the same. The Chinese station to catch culture alone. The rivers and ponds of the Pacific coast have been stocked from the east, and even Germany has borrowed a supply in return for the coarse carp it sent America years ago.—New York World.

MISS PROBATION PUNISHMENT?

The reformatory side of our criminal courts has existed for a long time, but the development of it through the system of probation has been extraordinarily rapid in the last few years. Probation is asked for, and looked upon, as an escape from punishment, as a means by which a prisoner under guidance can be reformed and restored to usefulness as a member of the community without punishment.

Any person who has been on probation under the charge of a competent probation officer knows well that he has not got off scot-free. He is under a constant and very real surveillance and must account for himself at all times and avoid the appearance of evil; he must report to the probation officer at stated times and places to his considerable inconvenience; he must expect domiciliary visits at unexpected times and to have his wife, neighbors, employer and the policeman on his route interrogated as to his record read to and commented on by the judge, with the possibility always before him of being surrendered and sentenced if his conduct is not satisfactory.

Is there not, then, a wrong attitude toward probation? We now say to the prisoner: "If you do well on probation, you shall escape punishment."

Would it not be better to say to him: "You have committed an offense and must be punished. You do not appear to be one of the criminal class, but you are in danger of becoming one. Therefore, the court will not impose an ignominious sentence of the kind reserved for the criminal class, but a punishment free from ignominy, but none the less real, enduring, and unpleasant. If you accept this punishment, which is not degrading, and live up to the requirements, no other will be demanded; if you fail, you must take the punishment provided for real criminals."

If this view of probation should be generally adopted, the public demand for some punishment would be met, and the offender would feel that he had paid the penalty.—Survey.

MAYOR GAYNOR'S RECORD

From James Creelman's "Municipal Non-Partisanship in Operation" in September.

Stripped of all personal or party considerations, and leaving the future to itself, the results accomplished by Mayor Gaynor in the first six months of his administration of the greatest and most complex municipal system in the world—London is divided into several administrative jurisdictions, and has a homogeneous and long-settled population—furnish an impressive answer to the despairing idea that non-partisanship in local government is a mere professional dream, an aspiration of the righteous impracticalities, a moral romanticism leading to weakness and confusion.

It was that refusal to allow any of the elements of a bargain to enter into his nomination, coupled with Tammany's fear of defeat—forcing the acceptance of an unbound candidate with an irreproachable record—that put into Mayor Gaynor's hands the supreme and indispensable instrument of nonpartisan and progressive government, which is absolute independence.

As soon as he assumed office the mayor made it plain that the order of things had been reversed. He refused to go to the bosses. He refused to send to the bosses. The bosses went to him and submitted their suggestions and he dealt with them as he saw fit. Even the dullest politician saw that the day had passed when "the organization" could work out a program in secret and hand it to the mayor for fulfillment. He appointed men of character, ability and experience to conduct the various departments of the city government. Several of them were millionaire business men. Not one was a saloonkeeper. Even the newspapers which had most bitterly opposed his election frankly applauded his appointments. When he desired advice he consulted his official associates, not the district political leaders.

ARCTIC COAST SURVEYS

One of the results of Russia's efforts for years past to ascertain the practicability of a commercial sea route from the Atlantic Ocean through Kara Sea to the mouth of the Yenesei River has been an excellent survey of all the intricacies of the Arctic shore line from Sweden along the Russian coast and through the Kara Sea along the Siberian shores to the mouth of the Yenesei.

In May last year two well equipped expeditions were sent to the Siberian coast. One of them, in charge of the Geologist Volosovitch, completed the work assigned to it, which was the survey of the Siberian coast between the mouths of the Lena and Kolyma Rivers, a distance following the winding of the shore line of about 2600 miles. To the other party, under the Geologist Tolmatschoff, had been assigned the task of carrying the survey east from the Kolyma to Bering Strait. Winter came while the party was still several hundred miles west of Bering Strait, and the surveyors went into camp and are completing their work this summer.

This year three other parties are in the field. One party entered the Kara Sea, bound for the coast of the Taimyr Peninsula, the most northern projection of Asia, and are expected to complete the coast survey to the mouth of the Lena. The work of this party, with that of Tolmatschoff in the Bering Strait section, will if fully carried out complete the charting of the north coast of Asia.—New York Sun.

IS IT POSSIBLE?

It has remained for a Seattle aviator to make one of the most advanced predictions covering the airship of the immediate future. James V. Martin, now trying for the degree of Ph. D. at Harvard, states confidently that the flight from the New World to the Old will be made in less time than 24 hours.

The sky-liners will avoid storms by the simple expedient of flying above them.

There will be no seasickness.

If the aviators will be able to add that, with the aeroplane speeding its course more than a mile above the sea, there will be no danger, the era of flying will surely be at hand. The best that the Seattle men can say now is that, "The aerial joy-line will be safer than any maritime method of transportation."

The assurances given are quite sufficient for the present. The journey of approximately five days is to be reduced to one; the trip is to be a continuous round of pleasure; danger is placed at the minimum—and the cost presumably will be trifling.

If one-tenth of these things be realized, the passenger steamship might as well strike its flag. More, the armored fleets of the world might as well sail into the open waters and sink themselves, for they are done, too!—Seattle Times.

20 YEARS AGO IN OAKLAND

Justice Lloyd, in deciding the case of Louis Gelssberger, of West Berkeley, who kept his saloon open on Sunday, the angel states to the shepherds that these words from Isaiah refer to "Christ the Lord." To the woman at the well, who was speaking of the Messiah, John iv, 25, Jesus said, verse 26: "I that speak unto thee am He." He makes practically the same statement in John ix, 37.

"The zeal of Jehovah of hosts shall perform this."

In Luke ii, 31, the angel states to the shepherds that these words from Isaiah refer to "Christ the Lord." To the woman at the well, who was speaking of the Messiah, John iv, 25, Jesus said, verse 26: "I that speak unto thee am He." He makes practically the same statement in John ix, 37.

Now as to the demonstration, I suppose no one will raise a question as to the fact that Jesus was crucified; that he died on the cross and was buried in a place provided by one Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus. Had the history of Jesus closed here his claim as to his Messiahship might fairly have been called a demonstrable failure. But, "thank ye unto God, who giveth us the victory," his history did not close here.

"He came forth from the grave," Matt. xxviii, 7; "appeared to and was recognized by the apostles," Luke xxiv, 36-38 and John xx, 26-28; "and after his ascension was seen by Saul of Tarsus," Acts ix, 1-5.

Jackson Henry, the farm hand who shot himself in Alameda last Wednesday, died at the receiving hospital this morning and his body was removed to the morgue where an inquest will be held tomorrow.

When the attorney for Frank Remme, alias A. Canewley, announced yesterday afternoon that he had completed his case against Attorney W. H. Hart and James Crisp, to recover $50,000 damages for alleged malicious prosecution, for causing the arrest of Remme and prosecuting him for an attempt to abduct Florence and Brush streets.

The death of Dr. W. S. Bronson, occurred in this city early yesterday morning at the residence of Mrs. Sawyer, 1305 Madison street.

Field players had another gala day at the races yesterday, for, with the exception of the last event, the favorites were doomed in every instance.

SCHOOL FOR SERVANTS

A school, the only one of its kind in Mexico, if not in the world, has been opened in this city for the education of servants, both men and women.

This step, which has long been needed, was taken by three philanthropic young men, Juan Leon, Baldomero Zenz and Rafael Ramirez, assisted financially by Lic. Pablo Maceo, Justo Sierra and Raoul Millie. Books, benches, desks, lights and all other furnishings have been provided by the three last named gentlemen in the quarters of the school, which is situated at Puento de Solano No. 3.

At the "Escuela del Puerto," as the institution has been named, classes are held only at night, and tuition, use of books, etc., are free to working people of all classes. The demand for places in the classes has been large, especially among porters, housemaids and servants. London, the city where the school was opened, has a large number of servants, but the school was especially designed to reach.

"We expect to improve materially the intelligence and ability of the servants of the city," said one of the leaders in the movement, "and we will especially call attention of business men and householders to the school, so that they may urge upon their servants the opportunities offered by the school. Seven hundred men are now being given tuition in the school, and a department for women will be added later."—Mexico Record.

For the first time the Kaiser prize, the most coveted of all honors at the University of Berlin, has been awarded to a woman this year. The winner is Fraulein Schwenke, one of the first women to matriculate at the university when it was thrown open to women in 1898.

She is a daughter of Herr Schwenke, chief director of the royal library in Berlin.

Idora Theater Concludes Its Grand Opera Season

SWEET 'LOVE TALES' END SUCCESSFUL ENGAGEMENT

Experiment so Popular That Management Will Give Better Productions.

BEVANI'S COMPANY TO OPEN AT GARRICK

Ellery's Band Scheduled for Another Month's Stay at Popular Park.

With an excellent performance last night of Offenbach's delightful opera, "Love Tale of Hoffmann," Bevani's Grand Opera Company brought their successful seven weeks' season to a close. Beginning tonight the Bevani company opens its second engagement at the Garrick theater in San Francisco. The opera experiment proved such a success that already General Manager B. P. Miller is making plans for a more elaborate season next year.

For the remaining four weeks of the present season at Idora, Ellery's Royal Italian Band will be the main musical attraction.

There has an organization that is incomparable, as there has not yet offered a band which reaches the high standard set by this brilliant organization.

It is almost a unique delight to the music lovers. Arranged by Colonel Ellery, they show an artistic combination which affords entertainment for all levels of society. Today, Labor Day—the immense crowds that are sure to visit Idora, afternoon and evening, will be regaled with many feature attractions.

NIGHT CONCERTS INDOORS.

Begun with this evening and continuing until Labor Day, the night band concerts will be given in the theater building in place of the outdoor shell. This will be with the exception of Sunday, when the evening concert will be given in the sun shell. Many patrons complain of the cool weather and the park management decided that the audiences would take more comfort in the theater under the protection of the theater will be reserved, the charge being only ten cents.

For tonight the program will be composed of the famous works of the great piano composers. Tomorrow afternoon will be the regular symphony concert in the theater building. On Saturday, Labor Day, Ellery will deliver his second lecture-musical in the theater. Verdi-Massenet music will be the bill for Thursday evening. Wagner and other German composition will be played or

Friday evening.

KOUNS NOW HEAD OF EASTERN LINES

Former General Manager of the Western Division of Santa Fe Transferred.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 5.—Charles W. Kouns, general manager of the western grand division of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, has been named general manager of the eastern lines, succeeding James E. Hixley, who died in Caribabad, Austria, August 16.

Percy C. Fox, general superintendent of the eastern grand division, has been named general manager of the western lines and will succeed Kouns at Amarillo, Tex. Both appointments become effective October 1. No appointment of a superintendent to take the place of Fox has been made.

It is reported in railroad circles that the appointment of a general superintendent of the eastern lines to succeed Fox probably will be given either to R. J. Parker, general superintendent of the western lines, or to H. W. Sharp, general superintendent of the western division of the eastern lines.

Shoots Down Man in Fight Over Tree

SEATTLE, Sept. 5.—George Aufley was shot and fatally wounded yesterday by Charles Smith, an aged prospector, near the town of Austin, just below Sultan, a mountain village northeast of here. The shooting resulted over the ownership of a bee tree found by Smith in the woods. Following the fight, Smith fled to the mountains. He is heavily armed. Aufley was preparing to leave today with his family for his old home in Kentucky.

KILLED BY SHOCK.

RICHMOND, Sept. 5.—W. C. Kramer, an employee of the local electric company, was instantly killed yesterday by contact with a 10,000-volt electric wire.

GOOD NEWS

Many Oakland Readers Have Heard it and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Oakland are glad to learn that prompt relief is within their reach. Many a lame, weak and aching back is had no more thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands upon thousands of people are telling the great success of their experience with the Old Quaker Remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

Mrs. John J. Anderson, 1911 Berkeley Way, Berkeley, Cal., says: "The public statement I gave in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills in August, 1907, still holds good. I was cured of kidney trouble by this remedy and I have had no serious recurrence of the trouble. I suffered greatly from a back and pain in my legs, and my health was all run down, due to disordered kidneys. In the morning when I got up, I had headache and it was all I could do to attend to my housework. When I caught cold my condition became worse and despite all my efforts I was unable to get relief. As soon as I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, however, a change for the better was noticeable and I continued to improve until I was restored to good health. The fact that I have had no serious trouble from my back or kidneys since gives me reason to praise Doan's Kidney Pills highly as ever."

HUNTINGTON PLANS TO GIVE UP WORK

Southern California Railway Magnate Will Retire the First of Year.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5.—Henry E. Huntington will retire January 1. He will transfer all his interests at Redondo to the Southern Pacific Railway, which already controls the Pacific Electric and Los Angeles Pacific railways, while Howard Huntington will give the Los Angeles Railway and the controlling interest in the Pacific Light and Power Company, which supplies the power for most of the electric lines in Southern California.

There is much discussion at Redondo as to the reason for the Southern Pacific entering that port. At present the Santa Fe is the only steam road going there. The Southern Pacific will acquire the Los Angeles and Redondo Railway, the Redondo Water Company and the Redondo Improvement Company. It is asserted that as Los Angeles has secured control of San Pedro harbor the Southern Pacific will build up Redondo and will shift its interests there from San Pedro.

The place has been built up almost entirely through the efforts of Henry Huntington, who expended millions not for his utilities but in amusement parks. The Southern Pacific will probably dispose of the latter and direct its attention to making a port which will come into prominence with the commerce that follows upon the completion of the Panama canal.

Chorus Beauty Will Become Nurse Now

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Miss Mabel Cranner is to become a nurse. She says so herself, so it must be true. Miss Cranner, who at one time was a member of the Kohl and Dill chorus, has enjoyed many exciting experiences in her short life, but perhaps the one best known is that of the horse she outraced in the hold-up July 21, 1907. With an escort, Miss Cranner was driving in Mill Valley when a highwayman stepped into the middle of the road and demanded the couple to throw up their hands. The escort lashed the horse and the bandit shot. At the last moment, the story went, he had caught sight of the girl's great beauty, and instead of directing his aim at her shot wild.

It is reported in railroad circles that the appointment of a general superintendent of the eastern lines to succeed Fox probably will be given either to R. J. Parker, general superintendent of the western lines, or to H. W. Sharp, general superintendent of the western division of the eastern lines.

WAITRESSES USE SIGNS IN BOYCOTT

MINERS' STRIKE UP TO OPERATORS

Women on Strike Employ Very Novel Method of Warning Away Customers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Picketing by signs is an innovation that is being tried by striking laborers here. Restrainted by a social induction from tailoring to prospective customers of a downtown restaurant, Miss Anne Willard, president of the waitresses' union, has invented a code of signals, which, she says, is satisfactory. Miss Willard told her troubles at the meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday.

"We have been dealt a cruel blow," she said. "We have been called scabs from tailoring. The only thing left us is the right to make signs, and I guess we can get along all right in that way."

Keene Stricken With Pneumonia in South

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 5.—James R. Keene, the New York millionaire stock broker and turfman, was stricken with pneumonia at an early hour yesterday morning at a hotel here and is in a serious condition at the Good Samaritan Hospital, to which he was removed. Keene arrived Saturday night to visit his stock in Cincinnati, where he is staying.

His system failed last night. "Mr. Keene is doing nicely and I feel now that his condition about his lungs may be broken up before it takes a firm hold. His temperature at noon was about normal, but it is a little higher tonight, which is a sign of improvement," Dr. F. C. Keene said. "I don't think his condition is at all alarming."

Mr. WOODIN and JAMES TAYLOR expect to stay here a week for San Bernardino for a month's visit.

MISS EMILY KANNER left yesterday for Santa Monica for a visit with friends and relatives.

MISS MAJORIE DOWD is stopping for a few days at Lake Tahoe, en route to her home in Sacramento.

OIL MEN ORGANIZE IN SOUTH FOR PROTECTION

Plans Devised for Relief of Those Whose Property Is Threatened.

ALMOST 100 PRESENT
WHEN ROLL IS CALLED

Adverse Decisions of General
Land Office Are Feared.

BAKERSFIELD Sept. 5.—The meeting held in this city yesterday for the purpose of devising plans and taking action or the relief of the operators on public oil lands whose property is threatened by adverse decisions of the General Land Office resulted in the formation of an entirely new organization under the name of the California Oil Men. The Western Oil Producers Association, organized at Los Angeles for the same purpose was not referred to in any way.

Following a general discussion of the subject at the meeting Charles P. Fox of the Oil World who was elected chairman was authorized to appoint a committee of fifteen members from among the leaders of the State. To this committee was delegated the task not only of formulating plans for permanent organization and the still more important duty of outlining a course of action and taking the first steps toward putting it into effect.

ANNOUNCE OFFICERS.

Chairman Fox and General R. L. Peeler secretary of the meeting yesterday were made members of this committee and Fox announced the following appointments: Coalaga S. A. Guerson Jr. R. W. Dades and George D. Roberts Mariposa O. O. McReynolds I. Steggs and Matt Sullivan, Modesto F. N. Scott, H. B. Quisenberry and E. J. M. Scott, Merced George L. Walker, P. O. Tietzel and W. W. Groat, Venetia G. S. Johnson, Devil's Den F. J. Walker, T. H. McLaughlin and J. W. McCord Kern River O. C. Heck, J. M. Wright and W. Young Midway D. M. Sheridan S. A. Johnson and J. B. Hedrick.

Fox said he would announce the members from the Tulare-Wittier and Salt Lake fields in a couple of days.

HUNDRED PRESENT

The meeting was attended by almost 100 oil men representing all parts of the State. The recent decisions of the Land Office and the history of the mining laws were briefly discussed by Attorney J. C. Johnson of San Francisco and N. A. Johnson of Coalinga. Johnson explained the yard decision and the points involved and Johnson reviewed the fact that mining laws have usually been the customs of the miners recognized by the courts and afterward adopted by legislatures and sold that in the present instance the oil men's troubles are due to the reversal of all precedents in which mining customs as they affect oil lands have been recognized by the courts.

TO ARGUE CASE

Congressman Smith who was asked to address the meeting said that the final step for the oil men was to go to the Law Office and file a writ of habeas corpus. He said "I am not disposed to work as a trustee to the oil men. However, if relief is not to be had there he believed that Congress has plenty of precedents to justify it in passing legislation to remedy the situation."

Others who took an active part in the discussion were F. P. Williamson of San Francisco, W. D. Young Judge of Santa Barbara, J. L. Young General Agent of Coalaga, J. W. McCloud of Hanford and others.

COMMISSIONER ON VISIT TO TWO BAY CITIES

R. E. Cabel Arrives in Oakland
After Trip Across the Continent.

MAKES ACQUAINTANCE OF REVENUE OFFICIALS

Looks Into Output and Conditions of California
Wineries.

R. E. Cabel, commissioner of internal revenue, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., arrived here this morning on a two days' visit, after a trip that has taken more than half a month, time and covered around all the way across the continent. Cabel will be here until Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, when he will leave for Sacramento and Portland, the first two stops on his way home. His trip has been a semi-official one, but has been made to include a vacation.

Cabel left Washington August 15 and journeyed to St. Louis without a stop. Here he met the government revenue officials in the Missouri city and went over conditions existing in their district. About a day was spent here, Cabel continuing to Denver.

VISITS IN COLORADO.

After a short visit and a few hours at Colorado Springs, he journeyed to Salt Lake City, spending as much time at the Utah metropolis. His trip to this coast was uninterrupted after this and he arrived in Los Angeles for a thorough rest.

At Los Angeles Cabel was met by Collector of Internal Revenue Munter, who accompanied the commissioner on his trip up the coast. The wine fields of Southern California were visited, many hours being spent at various wineries, where books were gone over and the output studied. The government officials were received courteously by the wine makers and facts and figures were given willingly. Cabel found everything prosperous in the southern territory.

VISITS AT STOCKTON.

From Fresno the officials came up to Stockton and Lodi, that territory being covered in the same way as that of the lower section of the State. Here, too, Cabel was given the information he sought and says that he found everything in good order, with the wine growers enthusiastic over the condition of the season's output and optimistic as to the future.

Cabel and Munter then came to San Francisco and Oakland and two days will be given over to those cities.

GETTING ACQUAINTED.

"The principal object of my trip," Cabel said this morning, "was to get acquainted with the boys in the service. I found conditions satisfactory in the offices throughout the country, wherever I went, everybody being hard at work receiving assistance from the men with whom they had to deal."

"Things look bright in the State, with everybody happy and optimistic. I met with courteous treatment whenever I had occasion to visit Californians, and encountered no difficulty in getting any information I was after."

After two days here and across the bay Cabel will visit the Sacramento Valley and Sacramento in particular, and will then proceed directly to Portland, where his return trip across the continent will be begun.

Increase in Finished Steel Sales Is Noted

NEW YORK. Sept. 5.—The last few days of August contributed new orders for finished steel products that increased the daily average sales of the steel corporation subsidiaries by about 6,000 tons. The new business was not sufficient to rescue August from being the dullest month of the year, but the significant feature is that the last four days of August and the first four days of September have developed more inquiries, some increase in sales, a more hopeful sentiment and a more cheerful tone.

Shipments of all steel products exceeded the new business taken by about 30 per cent, and the distribution of wire products was largely notable shipments in August having been on the increase.

Railroad equipment purchases were light, but October is expected to develop more business.

Official Dies After Few Weeks' Illness

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Sept. 5.—Postmaster K. B. Summerfield died here today, after an illness of only a few weeks. He was forty-six years old, and had but recently been appointed postmaster for his third consecutive term.

EXCELLENT SKETCHES MAKE BILL AT BELL REAL WINNER

DOROTH AND RUSSELL, in "The Musical Railroader" at the Bell this week.

Dorsch & Russell, "Musical Railroaders" at the Bell Theater this week, open at a tower station in the Rockies, with the Mount of the Holy Cross in the distance and a miniature train whistling and steaming through the narrow defiles of a mountain gorge. Russell, as the tramp, has a typical makeup and tears railroad lanterns apart and pulls track roads and track switches out by the roots to procure piceloes and flutes, on which he plays some clever musical work. He rides into view on the "Get-Off-and-Push Limited." The entire outfit is a distinct novelty. The scenic equipment is first class, depicting a lonely spot on the railroad, where Dorsch, the two men, accosts Russell, the tramp, and as they swing from their barance into a series of harmonies on their ingeniously designed instruments.

Dorothy De Schelle is an aerialist in one of those acts with a lot of nickel-plated apparatus and a public backslid. She certainly gives an amazing performance of gymnastic feats. She is a wonderful actress and it is little short of marvelous the way she operates shoulder joints on the belt and socket principle. Black & McCona are "military acrobatic comedians," who revel in comedy stunts. Hal McCone was famous as J. Barnum & Bailey clown and he has brought to vaudeville many of the turnback ring specialties with which he once delighted thousands of children.

Will Davis, "The Doctor Monologist," makes a hit and considerable of a surprise is pulled off when he is called from the audience to attend "himself" and thus starts his medical yarns. Excellent motion pictures are shown that delight and entertain.

"Things look bright in the State, with everybody happy and optimistic. I met with courteous treatment whenever I had occasion to visit Californians, and encountered no difficulty in getting any information I was after."

After two days here and across the bay Cabel will visit the Sacramento Valley and Sacramento in particular, and will then proceed directly to Portland, where his return trip across the continent will be begun.

UNIQUE CHARACTER GAIN IN IMPORTS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Son of Georgia War Governor, Collector of Odd Things, succumbs.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 5.—Julius L. Brown, son of Georgia's war governor and brother of the present governor, died yesterday. In his death passes a unique character.

Brown was known the world over, for the interest he took in the collection of coins and china. It is said that his collection of coins is the second most valuable in existence.

He was a collector of the rare in all things. At a dinner which he gave years ago to President Cleveland the latter sat in a chair which Napoleon had owned and ate at a tablecloth once the property of Emperor Maximilian of Mexico.

Two years ago, he entertained the "Tench Club," an organization of prominent ministers, at dinner to death." At this repast the tablecloth was black, the linings of the room were black and everything was set in the somber hue of death.

A showing of peculiarly artistic modes—tailored suits in models confined to us—millinery in a multitude of pleasing effects—furs, waists, coats, wraps and petticoats pregnant with original beauty and unquestioned quality.

We are ready for our Opening tomorrow with a showing of wearing apparel that emphatically proves our statements regarding the quantity and beauty of our buyers' purchases for fall. ## Engine Hits Buggy; Pilot Man's Refuge

ASHTABULA, Ohio, Sept. 5.—Climbing from the wreckage of his buggy on the pilot of a locomotive going at the rate of fifty miles an hour, Fred Miner, aged 18, yesterday clambered upon the running board of the engine and into the engine cab.

His escape was near to the miraculous. An engine on the Lake Shore railroad struck his horse and buggy a few miles outside this town. The horse was killed and Miner, wedged in the wreckage of the buggy, remained on the pilot of the rushing engine. Indignant, he climbed into the cab, he says, to tell the engineer what he thought of him. He claimed that the engine had no headlight.

Women in the News Today :

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 5.—Because John D. Rockefeller's "Rules for Guards," the book with which each of the half-hundred men on duty at his Forest Hill estate is provided, contained no clause devoted to the treatment of "girls in tights," intruders gently carried to the pound, Captain and as such deposited on the grass, within the confines of Forest Hill at dusk last night, paled in confusion. For Miss Gertrude, who is an attraction at Luna Park and had landed in the Forest Hill woods after a parachute leap, was not burdened with garments. And what she did wear were vivid red. They were tights.

The "long, slim man" returned with a portly superior, red of face and inclined to arbitrary methods. He seemed a sort of captain of the guard, corporal of the watch, something important. He looked at Miss Thomas, his face as pale as a much his garments in hue. Then he studied a bulk of volume he pulled from his pocket.

"Nothing here about how to treat trespassers garbed in tights," he added. "Take her head," he commanded to the "long, slim man." He grasped the young woman's feet himself and the two carefully carried Miss Gertrude to the boundary of the fence, unlocked a gate and as carefully deposited the still dazed woman beside the roadway.

Society Leader Thrown From Hotel

ROME, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Philip L. Walsh, a prominent Philadelphia society woman, arrived here yesterday after having been forcibly ejected from a fashionable hotel at Tivoli, where she was staying with her daughter, Miss Catherine Walsh. Mrs. Walsh was made the victim of a cholera scare which is now driving all foreigners from Italy.

Mrs. Walsh has been in Italy for more than a month for her health, during which time she has visited seashore resorts. While at Frasca Villa she was advised to try the sulphur baths of Tivoli, and went there with her daughter. After dinner at the hotel the other night Mrs. Walsh was taken with a slight attack of gastritis. A cholera-scarred waiter immediately informed the landlord that she had the cholera. The proprietor insisted that she leave the hotel immediately.

Local physicians were called and they diagnosed the case as one of indigestion accompanied by a slight fever. In spite of their opinion, Mrs. Walsh was forcibly put out of the hotel and had to wait in the railway station two hours until an automobile from Rome came to take her and her daughter back to this city.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Andrew Branderberger, sixty years old and weighing 170 pounds, swam five miles today, the height of one of the heaviest rainstorms in the city's history. She started from the east end of Alton, Ill., in the heart of the business section to St. Louis, Alton being at 640 South Broadway. She was accompanied by a rowboat and a motor boat. She was quite fresh at the conclusion of the swim and climbed a flight of 495 steps from the levee where she landed to the top of the hill.

Would Wed Feminine Pedestrian

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 5.—Brimming over with enthusiasm for the benefit from walking as a positive cure for nervousness, which can be obtained in no other manner, Alice Shepard Kelly, M. D., the lone pedestrian, has returned from her 200-mile trip and finds an offer of marriage awaiting her and a letter from ambitious pedestrians who wish to accompany the daring walker in her next venture.

Wealthy Girl Elopés With Mother's Chauffeur

WILLIMANTIC, Conn.—The pretty little town of Willimantic, on the outskirts of Norwich, has a brand new romance. It is an elopement, and the parties are Miss Lillian Havens, the pretty and accomplished daughter of Mrs. Clara E. Havens of Idyl Manse. The young man is Edward Kelcher, who until recently was employed by Mrs. Havens as chauffeur.

The marriage ceremony was performed at Rockville last Monday by the Rev. E. S. Moore, pastor of the Methodist church, although Kelcher is a Catholic and the bride a member of the Congregational church. Both have just celebrated their 22d birthday.

The young couple are spending their honeymoon in or near Hartford, from where Kelcher comes. Mrs. Havens is said to have forgiven him when she learned that they were very much in love with each other.

Mrs. Havens is the widow of a wealthy manufacturer of Wethersfield and Hartford. The daughter received her principal schooling in Germany.

When Miss Havens, who is tall and blonde and an only child, came home from finishing school her mother entertained lavishly for her, and there was much gaiety in the house which stands in a small park, generally known as the "Garden of Eden." The wealthy daughter of the house proved to be a democratic girl, unspoiled by wealth; and became an assistant in the Halls Club, an organization for working girls established in Norwich by way of Mrs. William Camp Lanman.

Last May Mrs. Havens made a change in her chauffeur, and Kelcher got the job. He was good looking and agreeable, and while the mother entertained guests on the rear seat of the big touring car Miss Lillian sat ahead with the chauffeur. Cupid squeezing in without any special invitation. The true state of affairs was not suspected until quite recently.

Last Monday, accompanied by Town

Clerk Bradley Sears of Mansfield, a relative of the Havens family, Kelcher and Miss Lillian went in the Havens auto to Rockville and obtained a license, and were married. Mr. Sears has acted as peacemaker between mother and daughter.

"I don't believe there ever was a physician more particular about the diet of his convalescent patients than my husband," this woman told the reporter when she was asked about her work. "He insisted that as much depended on the diet of a convalescent as on the care of the physician. When he couldn't get proper dishes for his patients in any other way, I was called on to supply them."

"As a consequence when he died I was very well informed about cooking for sick and delicate people. So when I began to look around for some way to earn a living it really seemed as if there wasn't anything I could do besides cook for sick people. When I went to see physicians to talk the matter over, almost without exception they agreed that it was the very best thing I could do, not only in the way of earning money for myself, but also in supplying a need in our town."

All promised to send me orders whenever their patients need specially prepared food. As I had less than $100 to fall back on, I had to wait for these orders not feeling safe to risk making up any little dainty on the chance of it being called for. Fortunately, I had to wait less than a day. Within an hour after finishing my round of calls on my husband's professional friends I had two orders for chicken broth.

"From that small beginning orders kept coming in, small at first, but increasing as time passed and people and other physicians came to know what I was doing. At the end of the first year I had worked up to the point where about all my time was occupied, but there was very little money cleared after all expenses were paid. Since I had the work the question seemed to be to reduce expenses so my profits would be larger."

Helen Gould's $1000 Goes to India Mission

NEW YORK.—When the Rev. Walter T. Scudder sailed as a cabin voyager on the Berlin to return as a missionary to India, in charge of the Arcot Industrial mission, he took with him $30,000 he had collected in this country for the extension of the mission work and the very last $1000 of this amount, the sum he needed to enable him to sail and accomplish the work planned, was donated by Miss Helen Miller Gould.

It was through the Rev. Nathan Demarest, rector of the Jay Gould Memorial Church at Roxbury, N. Y., an old friend of Dr. Scudder, that Miss Gould is said to have become interested in the work of the industrial mission, which carries on a large mission school and farm at Madras, India. She was so attracted by Dr. Scudder's description of the work already done and the extension of the schools and farm intended, that she readily gave the $1000 needed to round out the $30,000 the missionary had returned to America to obtain.

While Crowd "Gawks" Women Repair Auto

Women Not More Honest Than Men

NEW YORK.—The spectacle of two handsomely gowned women repairing a disabled automobile unmindful of the grim and squalor of such labor, attracted a big crowd on Montgomery street, Jersey City, which for a time threatened a blockade of traffic. Regardless of their gowns or their dainty hands, the fairautists grasped wrenches and went to work bravely when their car got into trouble.

They were Mrs. A. C. R. Pierce, wife of a wealthy New Yorker, and owner of the car, and Mrs. Allen Sangree, wife of a journalist. Their auto broke down while they were crossing the car tracks on Montgomery street near Hudson Hall, a policeman and a bystander the women leaped out and all four pushed the car to the curbstone. Then they threw back the hood covering the engine and got busy with their wrenches. Meanwhile a mechanic was telephoned for and when he arrived the job was completed.

The girls have the sterner sex beaten to a frazzle."

Aged Woman Bosses Coal Barge Fleet

NEW CUMBERLAND, Pa.—The Hetty Green of local business circles is Mrs. Ellen Ross of Bella Vista, a settlement on the Yellow Breeches creek, opposite New Cumberland. Although 70 years old Mrs. Ross is still vigorous. When the water in the Susquehanna river is of sufficient height Mrs. Ross is daily at work with a fleet of coal and sand barges which she owns and manages. She says the open-air life is doing her a great deal of good.

Until several years ago Mrs. Ross managed the old Ross mill, opposite which she lives. When she gave up that work she expected to retire permanently from business, but two years ago she bought a fleet of river barges, and ever since she has given her personal attention to superintending the dredging of coal and sand from the river bed. Fourteen men work under her direction.

One revolution worked by Mrs. Ross has been the elimination of the use of profanity among her employees.

Her Name Attached to French Tales Too Much

NEW YORK.—Miss Anna Magdalene Brennan, daughter of James Brennan, a contractor of No. 617 West One Hundred and Forty-third street, who is a graduate of Our Lady of Lourdes School on Washington Heights, is the winner of a competitive examination for a four years scholarship course in the Butler Memorial Boarding School, known as Marymount, at Tarrytown-on-Hudson.

Mrs. Brennan is 16 years old and is considered one of the brightest pupils that has ever left the school of Our Lady of Lourdes. She is also a violinist and will become a member of the Marymount orchestra. The scholarship includes art, science, languages and music as well as elementary courses, and is given by the Madames of the Sacred Heart of Mary as a memorial to the late Mrs. Butler's gift of $10,000 to the Order of the Sacred Heart.

Mrs. Crewe-Jones considers that the publication of this volume has severely injured her reputation as a translator and otherwise. So she had papers in a suit for $10,000 damages served on James Lamont Perkins of the publishing firm.

In the language of her complaint: "Aforesaid translations are unsatisfactorily made, and are an unscholarly production of inferior literature, and of a quality which is not such as to reflect credit upon the translator."

Mrs. Crewe-Jones, at her apartment, No. 616 West One Hundred and Thirty-sixth street, yesterday said Mr. Perkins first engaged her as assistant editor at a salary of $15 a week to get out an edition of Shakespeare. The work was not completed by her, and when he asked her to translate de Maupassant for him.

CONSERVATION NOT QUESTION OF POLITICS, DECLARES PRESIDENT TAFT AT THE GREAT ST. PAUL CONVENTION

AVOID CLASHES

HE SAYS

Calmest Consideration and the Clearest Foresight Necessary in Work.

FOREST, COAL, MINERAL LANDS ALL TAKEN UP

Central Note of Speech Is the Appeal for Practical Use of Common Sense.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 5.—Declaring that "the danger to the state and to the people at large from the waste and dissipation of our national wealth is not one which quickly impresses itself on the people of older communities," President Taft sounded a warning to the commonwealth today, in an address before the National Conservation Congress, at St. Paul.

Forest, coal, mineral and oil lands were taken up in order by the President and he treated at length on the coal land of Alaska, telling of their immense value and recounting some of the many connected with them.

The only prospect of a warm discussion between "state's rights" and those favoring national conservation was in the second national conservation conference.

Early in evening the opening session was held in the Hotel St. Paul, and little knots discussing the ticked delegations ran by the other and comment on Pinchot's move last night in a national commission to the two of systematizing the work of government and bringing them of increments to the national forests. There were scores of lesser lights among the speakers at the congress such as James R. Garfield, a member of the Roosevelt cabinet; Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana; B. A. Fowler, president of the National Irrigation Congress; W. C. Muller, president of the Southern Irrigation Association; Senator Frank B. Hill of St. Paul; Senator Frank B. Kellogg of Cornell University; Senator Knute Nelson; John Hart of the Bureau of American Republics; Judge Ben H. Lindsey of Denver; many of the other prominent men talked.

President Taft made it his position that the whole subject of conservation. The speech was modestly and simply prepared with greater care than any public utterance Mr. Taft has made since his inauguration. The President showed an exact knowledge of the subject which won many of his hearers.

The central note of his address was an appeal for practical common sense in conservation.

Gives Credit

President Taft gave repeated credit in his speech to Colonel Roosevelt for his work in conservation, but he apparently took nothing at all "new nationalism."

"In these days there is a disposition to look too much to the Federal government for everything. I am liberal in the construction of the constitution with reference to federal power, but I am firmly convinced that the only safe course for us to pursue is to hold fast to the limitations of the constitution and to regard as sacred the powers of the states."

When President Taft was introduced the entire audience stood up and cheered. No effort was made to cover, to prolong the demonstration.

The President's reception of 1,000 called out another demonstration, which lasted as long as the one in greeting to himself. While it continued the President took off his reading glasses and said good naturally on the great audience.

He was constantly interrupted by cheering. Leaving the conservation conference, President was escorted to the Hotel Hotel, where he was entertained at luncheon.

President Taft's address to "the members of the National Conservation Congress," in part is as follows:

Taft's Address

"Conservation as an economic and political term has come to mean the preservation of our natural resources. For example, we have the timber, the greatest good, in the greatest number in the development of this country. The hardships of the pioneer, in the anxiety of the investor for quick returns, they were very little time, opportunity, or test to prevent waste of these resources supplied by nature which could not be replaced. The timber, the water, while the investment of capital was to great a desideratum that the people as a community exercised little or no control over the transfer of absolute ownership of the valuable natural resources to private individuals, without retaining some kind of control of their use. The impulse of the whole new community was to encourage the coming of population, the increase of settlement, and the opening up of business and he who demurred in the slightest degree to any of these proposed additions to the content of the idle resources at hand was regarded as a traitor to his nation and an obstructor to public pro-

Pinchot Leaves St. Paul Taft Arrives for Speech

ST. PAUL, Sept. 5.—The President received a demonstrative welcome at the Conservation Congress. Gifford Pinchot, who had been in St. Paul for two days, was not present. He went into Representative James A. Tawney's district today to deliver a speech in favor of Tawney's opponent. The former forester will be back in the city tomorrow to greet Colonel Roosevelt. James R. Garfield also.

When the President reached St. Paul at 9 o'clock he was met at the Northwestern station by Governor Eberhard, Senator Clapp, Frank B. Kellogg, President Baker of the Conservation Congress, and a local committee.

He was escorted through crowded streets to a reviewing stand in front of the Fifth-street entrance of the postoffice, where, after a wait of three-quarters of an hour, he reviewed the Labor Day parade. The President was greeted with applause and occasional cheering as he was driven from the station to the reviewing stand.

In Alaska are 192,000,000 of acres, of which 100,000,000 of acres are in the United States, and most include within their boundaries something like 22,000,000 of acres that belong to the state, but to private individuals. We have then, excluding Alaska forests, a total of 144,000,000 acres of forest belonging to the Government which is being treated in accordance with the principles of scientific forestry.

The government timber in this country amounts to only one-fourth of all the timber, the rest being in private ownership. Only a portion of this which is in private ownership is located properly treated according to modern rules of forestry. The usual destructive waste and neglect continues in the remainder of the forests owned by private persons and corporations. It is estimated that fire alone destroys fifty million dollars worth of timber a year. The management of forests not on public land is beyond the jurisdiction of the Federal Government. If anything can be done by law it must be done by the state legislatures.

On the railroads, I should devote a few words to what the Government has done and is doing in this regard.

"By the recommendation of a panel created by the Senate of the subcommittee of the United States with which to construct works for storing great bodies of water at proper altitudes from which by a suitable system of canals and ditches, the water is to be distributed over the arid and semi-arid lands of the Government to be sold to settlers at a price sufficient to pay for the improvements. Unhappily the project has not been carried out, and the soil preserved for useful culture is of the very essence of conservation. Then conservation of agricultural lands is shown in the reclamation of arid lands by irrigation and I should devote to this a few words.

"The next subject, and one most important for our consideration, is the disposition of the coal lands in the United States and in Alaska. First, as to those of the country. I could not force development at the expense of a present or future waste, nor the withdrawal of the coal lands from the control of the Government for purposes of agriculture. So far as possible, the coal lands have been withdrawn by my order from classification 77,648,000 acres, making a total withdrawal of 95,615,000 acres. Meantime, of the acres thus withdrawn 11,371,000 have been classified and found not to contain coal, and have been restored to agricultural entry, and 56,000 acres have been leased to certain fuel companies, while 79,758,000 acres remain withdrawn from entry and await classification. In addition 336,000 acres have been classified as coal lands without prior withdrawal, thus increasing the classified coal lands to 18,000 acres.

"The investigations of the Geological Survey show that the coal properties of Alaska cover about 1200 square miles and that there are known to be available about fifteen billion tons. This is, however, only a portion of the coal in Alaska. Because further developments may easily increase this amount many times, we can say with considerable certainty that there are fields of coal in the Pacific slope which can be reached by water at a reasonable cost from deep water—in one case of about fifty miles and in the other case of about 100 miles—which will afford certainly six billion tons of coal, more than half of which is

Question Affects Vital Welfare of Entire Nation

"As President of the United States I have, as it were, inherited a conservative policy, and I rejoice in my heritage. I prize my high opportunity to do all that an Executive can do to help a great people realize a great national ambition. For conservation is national. It affects every man of us, every woman, every child. What I can do in the cause I shall do, not as President of a party, but as President of the whole people.

"Conservation is not a question of politics, or of factions, or of persons. It is a question that affects the vital welfare of all of us—of our children and our children's children. I urge that no good can come from meetings of this sort unless we subscribe to those who take part in them, and who are apparently striving worthily in the cause, all proper motives, and unless we judicially consider every measure or method proposed with a view to its effectiveness in achieving our common purpose, and wholly without regard to who proposes it or who will claim the credit for its adoption.

"The problems are of very great difficulty and call for the calmest consideration and clearest foresight. Many of the questions presented have phases that are new in this country, and it is possible that in their solution we may have to attempt first one way and then another. What I wish to emphasize, however, is that a satisfactory conclusion can only be reached promptly if we avoid acrimony, imputations of bad faith, and political controversy."

of a very high grade of bituminous and follows that exclusive title to these products can normally be secured only after the removal of the surface. Oil should be charged of as little as possible in terms of barrels of importable product rather than in acres of real estate. This is of great importance in the development of the oil industry, especially in the case of the oil wells where oil is in private ownership. The government, as it would not be entering on an experiment, but simply putting into operation a system which has been adopted by private concerns. Why should not the government as a landowner deal directly with the oil producer? I think that through the intervention of a middleman the government gives it to the land.

DEADLOCK CAUSES OFFICER FIRES AT 'PEEPING TOM'

President D. L. Randolph, Education's Head, Fails to Vote.

ALAMEDA, Sept. 5.—A deadlock in trying the delay over the election of plans for the Washington school to be erected at Eighth street and Santa Clara avenue. Out of ten plans submitted by architects to the Board of Education, only three comply with the specifications given out by the board, leaving only this number out of which to obtain a desirable plan for the new school.

School Directors Harold G. Ward and Gavin Atchison are voting for the plans of Rogers & Smith, while School Directors Dr. William Tappan Lum and Joseph Lanctree are outstanding for the plans of another architect. With this existing condition President D. L. Randolph of the board has refused to cast the deciding vote, resulting in the present deadlock.

Special meetings are being called almost daily by the board in order to select the plan which is deemed the most desirable, but as the vote now stands, the election will probably have to be made by President Randolph.

MOSER AND CHRISTIAN PITCH SWELL BALL AND OAKS TAKE DOUBLE-HEADER

LOCALS WHITEWASH SENATORS BOTH MORNING AND AFTERNOON

Brilliant Boxwork, Clean Hitting and Excellent Fielding Make Both Contests Easy for Wolverton's Men

Oakland added fame and glory to its name yesterday, both before lunch and after the big feed, for in the most convincing manner they daubed the whitewash all over the Senators and then rubbed it in; the first game being a five to zero victory and the second game a four to zero win.

It was Walter Moser who handed the capitol city outfit the trouncing at Freeman's park and but two hits were glorified off his delivery. On the other side of the pond it was Tyler Christian that buffeted the tail enders and he allowed them but one more hit. It was sure great pitching by both these slabsters and it makes us feel as if the chubby Texan is going to be a real big head liner for us after all.

HOW OAKLAND WON BEFORE LUNCH-TIME.

Bryant of Princeton, at one time, did the hurling for the Senator crew at Freemans and appears to be a coming in the port side hurling line, but he has much, very much to learn. The nine hits Lone in the third inning and Van Buren in the sixth inning. That was certainly some pitching, isn't it? IT WAS.

Orcos to Christian was Frank Arrelanes, fresh from the big American leg, and his return engagement to the big coast league wasn't one that would cause you to sit up and look. True the Oaks don't show a whole lot of bingles in that base hit column, but fine fielding and solid hitting was the order of the day.

Mosser and Christian had made him look like a decent spot when I come to taking a lead on him stealing bases, the former getting four while the latter stole home.

OAKS WIN OUT IN THIRD INNING.

The "One Round" Oaks caught the former Estorian off his stride in one inning and that was all they needed. They then picked up and a good throw, Margart reached the third cushion ahead of the ball by making a long slide. Hogan hit safely to center and Margart had no trouble in putting the fast run on the board.

Wolverton grounded to Van Buren and was safe at first because Bryant failed to touch the bag after getting the Deacon's throw in time. Cutshaw slammed the ball between first and second, where Van Buren and Shim couldn't get to but Wolverton came to the aid of the Senators by stopping the ball with his knee. That prevented further trouble.

THREE MORE IN EIGHTH.

In the third the Oaks got active again. Hause opened the inning with a single to center and Carroll walked. Wolverton grounded to Burns, who made a wild throw to first. When Van Buren could not reach Hogan scored and Carroll took third. Cutshaw drove the ball to Shim, who tumbled momentarily but caught Cutty at first. Carroll could not score on the play, but how did he know that Shim was going to tumble? Swander almost brought in the base runners with a hard drive to right field, Jorgens ran back to the fence and grabbed the ball just before he struck the corner. Three more runs came in the eighth. Hogan was safe at Wolverton, when he made his third hit for the game. This one landed in left, and White went to second on Carroll's out. Wolverton hit the ball just hard enough to drop it over Boardman's head and it rolled far enough to let Hogan come home. Wolverton got to second on Perry's throw to the plate. Cutshaw singled to right field and stole second, and Swander brought in his captain and Cutshaw with a hard drive past the second baseman.

In the afternoon affair over at Recreation park, Captain Harry sent Tyler Christian to do the hurling, and this lad pitched a game that gladdened the hearts of every Oakland rooter on the lot. But three singles was the best Gramham's men could get, and two of these came in one round. As that they were not dangerous, so it was "good" to the plate for the Senators. In fact, but two men got to second base.

NEGLECT

More Dangerous Than DISEASE

In my very extensive practice I have seen many cases of the VENereal Disease. Our so-called "incurable cases" are due to the fact that the patient is NERVOUS AND DELAYED. As such, I know that many men make themselves subject to the various forms of RENAL DISEASES, which are the result of the RENAL DISEASES. In fact, it is the RENAL DISEASES which are the result of the RENAL DISEASES.

For the Wolverines, Messrs. Margart, Hause and Wares were the particular headliners. Margart and Wares starring in a series of hair-raising base running acts, and Hogan doing the heavy work with the club. The trio stole a total of seven bases.

After two hitless turns at bat by each side, the Flawmakers caused a little stir in the first half of the third, when Shim singled to left with LaLonge on first as the result of White Hogan's mistake in taking his foot off the bag. There were two cuts at the time, however, and Van Luren's slider to left was taken off by Margart.

On the fourth turn at bat by each side, the Flawmakers caused a little stir in the first half of the third, when Shim singled to left with LaLonge on first as the result of White Hogan's mistake in taking his foot off the bag. There were two cuts at the time, however, and Van Luren's slider to left was taken off by Margart.

FOOTE THE VICTIM OF BRUTAL THUGS IS BELIEF

Tortured Stanford Freshman Waylaid by Crooks With Robbery the Object.

THIS IS LATE THEORY OF STRANGE ABDUCTION

Tough Fruit Pickers With Whom Student Worked, Are Suspected.

PALO ALTO, Sept. 5.—"Why should students brand a fellow with the numerals of a class no longer in college?" Why should they take occasion to haze a "good" freshman in a manner unkind of this university?

These and similar queries are the ones raised by the peculiar experiences of Paul Foote, the student who disappeared last Tuesday evening and was found in Sacramento in a dazed, delirious condition.

Not one of these questions can be answered by the upper classmen or faculty and it is the unanimous opinion of the Stanford community that the unfortunate freshman suffered harm at the hands of crooks who sought to place the blame on students, taking advantage of the usual excitement attendant upon the opening of the new term.

THOUGHT VICTIM RICH.

Also they were evidently mistaken in their opinion, supposing he was wealthy.

Foote has been brought to light today which shows that Foote undoubtedly fell into the hands of men who were familiar with the fact that he had some ready money and knew by his previous employment that he was a freshman.

While Foote came to Palo Alto on August 16 with little ready cash, he immediately secured a job in the fruit orchards near Sunnyvale, and accumulated a small sum, and recently received $60 from some outside source. The authorities are led to believe that Foote fell in with a team of rough fruit pickers, which led indirectly to his mysterious kidnapping by four masked men in an automobile on Tuesday night.

Rancher Escapes Death After Fight With Fire

Tells of Heroic Efforts by Party of 28 to Combat Fierce Mountain Blaze.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Sept. 5.—Charles Omittas, a rancher, after passing through a furnace of flame in a forest fire in Lion Canyon twelve miles north of here, last week, emerged barely alive, but will live.

A tale of an heroic fight of the rangers and twenty-three volunteers from Los Olivas was brought here by rangers today. Ranger John Libbus and Elmer Fields of Los Olives also narrowly escaped death in flames during the ten days' battle. The fire was declared out today.

During one night twenty-eight men, equipped with shovels, rakes and hoses, built a fire-break sixty feet wide over a half mile long, by that means surrounding the fire and extinguishing it.

More than 200 acres of the mountains were burned over.

The fire was probably started by campers.

World's Best Bulldog Dies of Blood Clot

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Dick Stone, conceded to be the finest bulldog in the world and for which his owner, Walter Jagger, before $60,000 only a few weeks ago, died suddenly yesterday. He was a grandson of Rodney Stone, for which Richard Crookshank referred to have paid $50,000, and was the dog which Lord Charles Beresford used to create the famous battle-ship strain.

It is believed that a clot of blood resulting from a cause unknown to science, will be the cause at which King George's veterinarian will preside.

HUNTINGTON BUYS STUDEBAKER CAR

Taft's Appointment Taken Up by President of Yale University.

Millionaire of South Has His Machine Equipped in Unique Way.

Howard Huntington, general manager of the Los Angeles Pacific Railroad, son of Henry Huntington, the well-known Southern California millionaire, has joined the ranks of the motorists, having purchased through the Lord Motor Car Company of Los Angeles, the Southern California agents for the Studebaker Standard line, one of the handsomest cars ever shipped out from the Studebaker factory.

The new machine is a 49 horsepower Standard touring car, and is finished in a special shade of maroon. The color was selected by Mr. Huntington especially for his car, and is said to set off the handsome lines of the automobile perfectly.

In addition to the usual complete equipment of the regular cars, the Huntington machine will have added many unique features designed by the owner.

GOODYEAR COMPANY DEVISES TIRE PROTECTOR.

An announcement has just been made by the local branch of the W. D. Newell Rubber Company that the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, has devised an inside tire protector that will go toward solving the problem of melting tire service. This protector is intended for use in old casings, too much used perhaps to be of any repair, but nevertheless still having some wear in the treads. The chief difficulty usually experienced in trying to use such casings is the tendency of damaged rubber to pinch the tubes. It is to eliminate this difficulty that the inside tire has been invented. By fitting the tube of the casing all around it completely, the tube is held in its place by a metal band.

Speaking of this protector a representative of the Goodyear Company says:

"Our experience has that the inside tire has been invented. By fitting the tube of the casing all around it completely, the tube is held in its place by a metal band.

Some bleacherite at a recent game in Philadelphia loaded up on mixed aisle, and taking a place of vantage behind Sherman, began to distribute a divers advertisement, calling him into his direction. He kept on his about throughout the game although a couple of fans advised him to chop it. When the game was finished the bleacherite followed Major to the clubhouse and renewed his verbal attack, and went so far as to say that he was not much of a fan. War costs a lot of money. ## AVIATOR LOST IN FOG HIGH ABOVE EARTH

Captain Thomas S. Baldwin Feels His Way In An Aeroplane.

FOLLOWED NOISE OF ENGINE ON MACHINE

Dixon Has Narrow Escape From Being Driven Out To Sea.

NEW YORK Sept 5.—Captain Thomas S. Baldwin is the first American aviator flying in this country to lose his way sailing through the air and the experience he had yesterday will probably result in aviators carrying compasses in the future. Baldwin made a flight at 11 o'clock yesterday. The weather was cloudy and the fog came in over the land. When up a considerable distance he found that he had run into a fog bank and could see nothing.

The aviation field had disappeared from sight. There was nothing to do but keep on moving. He was afraid to descend not knowing where he was what he was ever or how high he was.

FOLLOWS ENGINE NOISE.

"All I could do," he said afterward "was to keep going around in circles until I got an engine noise. I heard the roar of an engine and knew that some one else was in the air. I tried to keep away from the other plane, but could not see where it was and in what direction it was going. I kept after that noise and was soon out of the fog bank and over the aviation field. Then I came down."

The man who led Captain Baldwin out of the mist was Harry Hartness, the Cleveland aviator who was visiting a friend and testing new machines. He was practicing for the international meet where he has entered to several of the prizes.

BARRED FOR SUNDAY FLYING

ATLANTIC, Mass., Sept 5.—Cromwell Dixon the dirigible aeronaut had a narrow escape from being driven out to sea in his dirigible yesterday when his engine failed him when he was too high up to use his anchor. By crawling to the extreme forward part of the craft he was able to slip the craft onto another, the mooring rope dropped within inch of those below and he was pulled down safe.

SIGNALMEN STRIKE

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept 5.—A strike of the Brotherhood of Railing Signalmen on the New York Central and Western and Buffalo and New York railroads was declared yesterday. The strikers are employed in the maintenance of the Central's signal system, but have nothing to do with the handling of the levers. They claim a membership of 3000.

MISS DUPREE IS CHAMPION TONGUE WAGGER AT ORPHEUM

MILLE. RENEE, at the Oakland Orpheum this week.

(BY LEO LEVY)

Miss Maudie Dupree is a supreme high priestess of the High and Mighty Order of the Plane Gab. She won her laurels by right of conquest. As The Minister's tongue-wagger of the universe and glories in nobody, women not barred to work that she finds.

Miss Dupree takes for twenty minutes with only a step here and there to allow a strong burst of energy to go in a wild zig-zag. It is the secret for a long life.

She who plays the Rev. Matthew Templetion at the Oakland Orpheum. He has little to do with the minister's wife.

There is nothing like her hosiery.

Miss Dupree does to the reputation she won in the legitimate. The play was that she had the talents and fits her act in the tank stocking.

It is a difficult task in being Mrs. Templetion at one and the same time.

It is a difficult task but a lot of the other things he accomplishes.

INSURE ADEQUATE FOOD SUPPLY, SAYS HILL

Railroad Magnate's Advice Is Read at Portland Fair and Livestock Exhibition.

DISPLAY OF ANIMALS TYPICAL OF GROWTH

Capitalist Declares Consumption Increases More Rapidly Than Production.

PORLTAND, Ore., Sept. 5.—The third annual exhibition and speed meeting of the Portland Fair and Livestock Association opened here today. The exhibition of cattle, horses, sheep, swine and goats is the finest ever shown on the Pacific coast and is typical of the wonderful growth of the livestock industry in the Pacific northwest during the past few years.

The opening exercises were brief and included a paper prepared by James J. Hill. It was expected that Hill would be in attendance at the opening, but owing to business engagements he was unable to be on hand, and the paper was read by President Paul Maris of the Portland Fair and Livestock Association.

Among other things in the paper Hill said:

MAKESUPPLY SURE.

"A nation that means to preserve its prosperity and control its own destiny must make sure that its food supply is adequate and will continue to be so. To reverse the movement toward industrial dependence, food security and recurrent high prices, which has already gone far, is the item of the conservation program more important to us than all the others combined. This means conservation of the soil. It requires no expensive machinery, no subordination of local to federal interests, nothing but industry, intelligence and willingness to follow the teachings of experience. To insist upon it is especially the duty of all who like those gathered here, have interests inseparably connected with the preservation and increase of soil productivity."

"The raising of livestock has a two-fold relation to the food supply of any country. Directly, it furnishes the most diet, and indirectly, through the most valuable of all soils, the cultivation of the soil and the growing crops, it helps to furnish the bread diet. The interests which do not represent man, therefore, he had to act doubly upon the agriculture of the country and contribute twice to its welfare."

FOOD CONSUMPTION.

"Food consumption in the United States is increasing more rapidly than food production. That is the explanation of the falling off in exports of all forms of food products."

"It has been demonstrated that this country might easily double its wheat yield per acre and make a similar gain in the quantity of everything produced. It is also feasible to increase the production of smaller farms, study of soils, and their adaptation to different forms of plant life, rotation of crops, selection of seed and, above all, the which the breeders give to the raising of animals, and proper fertilization."

"By these methods, from 25 to 40 bushels of wheat per acre can be raised, and our farmers are now being educated. If all our farmers could be educated to the same point, bushels of wheat would be only a fraction of what we export, and we would give a surplus of 400,000,000 bushels for export. Plenty at home and a balance to draw on abroad would transform our outlook at present and free us from fearing that there is in our own hands."

ASSISTANCE NEEDED.

"This change could scarcely be wrought without the assistance of the industry, which you more particularly represent. The farmer and his wife are an inseparable adjunct of agriculture. The natural increase of animals, the dairy products, the meat market products, and the products of such countries as Holland, and many and should be valuable revenue producers on every farm in the United States. They can be raised at small cost, good market price, and a sure income. Still more important is the fact that one-third in cash value remains on the farm after removal of all costs of labor, maintenance of exhausted land to fertility and maintaining good land at its highest productive point."
